1. Fortification measures for the safety of communications on the Hungarian-Yugoslav border continue. There are small concrete bunkers surrounded by barbed wire, and rifle trenches have been dug for direct defense of the bunkers. These bunkers are intended for automatic weapons or low-caliber artillery weapons. Fortifications of this kind exist in the direction of: Zalameda (sic), Villány, Siklós, Pécs, Kerkenfeld (sic), and along the entire southwest border (Drava River).
2. All travel on the roads along which these fortifications are being built has been forbidden to civilians and even to Soviet soldiers on the allegation that the roads are mined.
